Vietnam is finally getting the recognition it deserves for its fine cuisine, whose hallmarks are fresh ingredients and imaginative flavors. In fact, one of the true highlights of any trip to Vietnam is unfettered access to amazing food. A Vietnamese cooking class is a fun and interesting way to learn about the local ingredients and find out how to make some of the most popular and delicious dishes. This half-day class starts in the morning with a trip to the local market, where a local chef will explain the produce, both familiar and unfamiliar, in detail. He buys the fresh ingredients and then you head to the kitchen to prepare your meal. At lunch, you will eat the dishes that were prepared right in front of you and by you! You will have your own cooking station and be immersed in this hands-on, lively and informative culinary experience.

Nha Trang's beachfront is a spectacular façade for the equally picturesque countryside behind it. Just a few miles inland, the terrain is dotted with palm trees and fruit orchards. Industry here is simple indeed, with small farming businesses making up the principal commercial enterprise. Take a stroll along a village path to the home of a family whose business entails weaving mats from the rushes that grow abundantly nearby. Two people working together are able to weave four mats each day. These are sold or bartered at the local market for food and other essentials. Step inside a traditional village house. Ancestor worship is an important part of daily life in Vietnam—a large area of this small home is reserved for the family altar. Then visit a local market to observe the daily rituals & local trade – a colorful place bustling with activity. Finally, visit the XQ Embroidery workshop to admire the skill and creativity of hundreds of Vietnamese artists crafting their embroidered works. Re-join your coach for the return drive to the pier.

Explore Nha Trang by rickshaw—a fun and interesting way to get around in Vietnam. You will ride through Nha Trang’s city center to view the fishing boats moored in the shallow harbor. The boats are brightly painted in blue and red. At the Po Nagar Cham Towers, you will discover that these towers are evidence of the ancient Cham civilization and were built between the 7th and 12th centuries on a site used for Hindu worship. Today, both ethnic Chinese and Vietnamese Buddhists come to Po Nagar to pray and make offerings according to their beliefs. Continue by coach to visit Long Son Pagoda, which was founded in the late 19th century and rebuilt several times. It is now home to less than ten monks. The entrance and roofs are decorated with mosaic dragons made of glass and ceramic tile. From the pagoda, if you are feeling particularly energetic, you will have the chance to climb the 208 stone steps leading to the giant white Buddha seated on a lotus blossom. There are superb views of the whole city from the platform around the Buddha, which was built in 1963. A short drive from there brings you to an embroidery shop where you will see a demonstration of this handicraft. Dam Market is also a spot to do some local shopping before returning to the ship.

Notes:

You must remove your shoes before you enter the Cham towers. Maximum weight is 300 lbs.

Visit the Po Nagar Cham Towers—one of the few remaining testaments to the ancient Cham civilization. These were built between the 7th and 12th centuries. Today, both Chinese and Vietnamese Buddhists come to Po Nagar to pray and make offerings according to their beliefs. Be sure to snap a photo from the Cham Towers or nearby Xom Bong Bridge of the abundant, brightly painted blue and red fishing boats moored in the shallow Nha Trang Harbor. Continue by coach to Long Son Pagoda, which was founded in the late 19th century and has been rebuilt several times since. It is now home to fewer than ten monks. The entrance and roofs are decorated with mosaic dragons made of glass and ceramic tile. From the pagoda, you will have the chance to climb the 152 stone steps leading to the giant white Buddha seated on a lotus blossom. You'll have superb views of the whole city from the platforms surrounding the Buddha. At Dam Market, you'll find a giant two-story market complex that can accommodate up to 6,000 shoppers. A short drive brings you to an embroidery shop where you'll see a demonstration of this handicraft before you return to the ship.

Notes:

You must remove your shoes before you enter the Cham Towers.
