UNESCO site of Barumini & Sardinia Tasting - CI47

Leaving Cagliari, head north through the countryside to discover the real Sardinia en route to the village of Villamar. Continue to the Neolithic Nuraghic village of Su Nuraxi of Barumini, the largest Nuraghic complex in Sardinia. Su Nuraxi nuraghe is the most important architectural expression of the Sardinian Megalithic period. After visiting the site, drive through the countryside bound for Casa Atzeri at Maracalagonis for a wine tasting with Sardinian cookies prepared according to ancient recipes before returning to ship. Note: must walk approx. 1 mile over various uneven and cobblestone surfaces, gravel paths, inclines, approximately 150 steps and narrow passages at the site.

Discover prehistoric Cagliari cultures as you tour the Su Nuraxi of Barumini archeological site before wining and dining at an authentic Sardinian restaurant. Travel through the quaint Villamar village, passing its vibrant wall murals, on the way to the Su Nuraxi of Barumini excavations. Behold megalithic structures of the Nuragic Age and inspect ancient tools, weapons, and pottery left behind. Unwind at Casa Atzeri, where you'll taste sweet treats paired with wine and live performances.

Highlights:

- Villamar: The town's colorful wall paintings by Antiochus Cotza and Antonio Sanna depict historical events and everyday cultural scenes.
- Su Nuraxi of Barumini: The Nuragic archeological site was added to UNESCO's list of World Heritage Sites in 1997.
- Casa Atzeri: Experience an authentic Sardinian wine tasting, complete with traditional Sardinian cookies.
